HARDING, IN FIGHTING SPEECH, ACCEPTS

Allies Promise Troops to Aid Poles Check Reds

Military Support Is Agreed Upon It Emergency Arises

French and British Missions Go to Warsaw to Make Plans for Cooperation in Fighting; Menace to Capital Is Serious as Bolsheviks Continue

Daily Advance.

(By Associated Press)

Warsaw, July 22.—The menace to the Polish capital is becoming serious through the defeat of the left wing of the Polish army. The battle front runs 600 miles on a fairly straight line north and south, and is about 120 miles east of Warsaw.

Since the attacks of the bolsheviks against Vilna on July 14, the Polish left, or northern wing, has been compelled to hasten its retreat and the bolsheviks have been following it with a daily advance averaging 15 miles. In three weeks the Poles have retired from the Beresina river to the Niemen, a distance of more than 180 miles, and the distance between the Niemen and Warsaw is about 150 miles.

FURTHER BOLSHEVIK SUCCESSSES REPORTED
London, July 22.—Further successes for the bolsheviks against the Poles in Volhynia and southward are reported in Wednesday's soviet communiqué from Moscow, received by wireless today. The statement shows the bolsheviks have crossed the old Galician boundary line to the southeast of Lemberg, from which town they are still about 100 miles distant.

ALLIES DECIDE TO LEND MILITARY AID TO POLES

Paris, July 22.—The allies have decided to take measures to give military aid to Poland, if that should prove necessary. It was learned here today.

A French mission headed by Jules J. Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, who is home on leave, will leave tonight for Warsaw to arrange for prompt succor to the Poles.

British Mission Also.

On the same train and with the same objective will be a British mission headed by Lord Abernon, British ambassador at Berlin.

These missions, it is learned, leave with full authority to say to the Poles that whatever aid is needed, whether military or financial, or in the nature of supplies, will be forthcoming. The bolsheviks in Poland are the only Polish remnant left.

Troops to be Used.

It is stated unofficially, but on high authority, that this means help for Poland in the form of troops, if they are required.

OPEN WATERWAY TO LAKES BOOSTED AT DETROIT MEETING

(By Associated Press.)

Detroit, July 22.—Demanding development of the upper St. Lawrence river to provide an open waterway from the Great Lakes to Atlantic, 1,500 delegates, representing every section of the country, assembled here yesterday opening session of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater congress.

The congress, which will continue through Saturday, speakers from ten states will urge development of a tidewater port, a major outlet relieving congestion at eastern ports and developing the middle west.

The object of the congress is to bring before the people, and ultimately the country, the United States advantages they believe would result through providing a deep waterway from the sea to the Great Lakes. Supporters of the movement declare the tidewater would be benefited because the Great Lakes city would become an ocean port and that the commercial and industrial life of the east would be enhanced by cheaper transportation to its markets from the interior.

The annual meeting of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, with a membership in 14 central and western states, will be held Saturday.

MOSLEM PLOT IS NIPPED IN TURKEY

(By Associated Press.)

Constantinople, July 22.—Wholesale arrests were made yesterday in connection with an alleged plot to promote a general uprising of Moslems against foreign occupation. The confession of one plotted, however, had not implicated high officials of one of the entente powers in the alleged conspiracy, which was directed chiefly against the British.

CARL WANDERER PLEASED 'NOT GUILTY'

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 22.—Carl Wanderer, self-confessed slayer of his son, was yesterday in custody of officers for Chicago, where he is under sentence for violation of the Mann act. A large number of people, most of them colored, gave the pugilist an ovation at the depot before he left.

"I have always been a booster of classified and I am more convinced now than ever that it pays," Mr. Hughes said.

DRYS OFFER BRYAN PARTY NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENCY

ACCEPTANCE BY NEBRASKA IS EXPECTED IN CONVENTION CIR-CLES.

CAN'T BE FOUND

Great Commoner Said to Be "Somewhere" in Northern Minnesota.

Lincoln, Neb.—W. J. Bryan, was tendered the presidential nomination of the prohibition party.

Several hundred telegrams and as many more letters, many specially delivered, poured in yesterday from the 16 recognized railroad unions, urging him to accept the prohibition party nomination for president. They came from all parts of the country and the dominant keynote in all was that this was "Mr. Bryan's" opportunity to sweep the country. These people everywhere were disgusted with both the democratic and republican parties.

Awaits Bryan's Reply

The prohibition party today rearranged its convention, scheduled pending word from Bryan, to accept him as its nominee. Bryan was asked whether he would accept the party's nomination. All planks were being made on the assumption that Mr. Bryan would accept.

The platform committee, virtually ready late last night with its tentatively drawn up back to executive action to re-draft the platform so that its members said, "there could be nothing in it which would not meet with Mr. Bryan's whole-hearted approval."

League Plank Redrafted

Chief among the planks being redrafted were those dealing with the league of nations, agriculture, profiteering and commerce. A plank calling for a world tribunal, being specifically the Versailles league was deleted from the original committee. Members reserved the right to offer amendments on the convention floor, however, and indications are there will be a fight.

The agriculture plank planned the strongest possible support to farmers and that concerning profiteering was a vigorous denunciation of speculation.

BRYAN IS SOMEWHERE IN WOODS, BUT WHERE?

Crookston, Minn., July 22.—Blind trials stopped every hour due to the whereabouts of William Jennings Bryan, reported "somewhere" in northwestern Minnesota" today and this afternoon newspaper men seeking him for an expression in reference to his nomination for the presidency by the prohibition party virtually abandoned the search.

COX NOTIFICATION DATE SET FOR AUG. 7

(By Associated Press.)

Columbus, July 22.—Chairman White of the democratic national committee, today announced that Saturday, August 7, had been chosen as the date for notification of Gov. Cox of his nomination as presidential candidate.

The following Monday, August 9, was fixed for the notification of Franklin D. Roosevelt, as vice-presidential nominee.

The notification will take place at the home of his home near Dayton, with those for his running mate, the Roosevelt home, Hyde Park, N. Y. Mr. Roosevelt will attend the Dayton ceremonies and Gov. Cox said today that if possible he will go to Hyde Park.

Mr. Cox will leave here tomorrow to begin work on his speech of acceptance at Dayton. While at Dayton, he will be the city's hero at a "home-coming" celebration July 30.

Mr. White will return here or to Dayton for further conference with Gov. Cox, who has been nominated.

Mr. White has been definitely decided, Mr. White said, to keep the main democratic headquarters at New York during the campaign.

Central headquarters, he added, will be at Chicago. The question of the Connecticut state office has been definitely decided.

Craighurst Community Gathering—Two hundred and fifty attended the community social Wednesday evening at Craighurst farm given under the auspices of the young people of the Union Presbyterian church of Rock Prairie.

Craighurst is seven miles east of Janeville. The beautiful lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns, an electrical lighting system being installed for the occasion. Games occupied the evening. The United Men's chorus of this city sang six selections.

Ice cream and cake were served buffet style, later in the evening. Several from this city attended among them J. A. Craig and L. A. Markham.

Four Weeks in East—Mr. and Mrs. Series Christman, 15 South Palm street, left Wednesday for a four weeks trip through the West. They will go by way of the tourist country and will visit friends and relatives in Buffalo, New York City, and Worcester.

At Family Reunion—A family gathering was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goldsmith, town of Rock, in honor of Mrs. Goldsmith's mother, Grandma Peterson who has just recovered after several weeks illness.

Forty relatives attended the picnic, many from distant points because of the coolness of the day. Old fashioned games were played, kodak pictures were taken, and old times reviewed. Out of town guests who attended were: Mrs. Inger Scott, Boscolet, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Alvin, Mrs. Albin, Elizabet and daughter, Kenosha, Minn.; nieces and nephews of Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. T. J. Dunn, Miss Esther Acheson and Edward Acheson all of this city.

Mrs. Mum in West—Mrs. W. A. Mum, 532 South Main street, left this morning for Chicago where she will join her sister. Together they will make an extensive trip through Yellowstone park. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

The address of Mrs. H. H. Morgan on "Child Welfare" which was the opening of the afternoon session, was a practical talk on the value of giving children of the nation, including the foreign born, bright, strong citizens which will make them good citizens of the nation in the future, and successful parents of the next generation. She emphasized the thought that the children are the most valuable asset of the nation, and should be given the best opportunities.

Ways of "Wives" Program Under the presentation of the week which was given by Mrs. Eva C. Lewis, editor of "The Motor," many timely hints concerning methods of combating propaganda of the "wets" was given. She said they are filling the journals with articles telling of the failure of prohibition to bring about the belief that it is unpopular and unsuccessful. These arguments must be met, she felt, by constant publicity of the facts in the case.

A strong plea for direct methods in teaching children facts regarding the beginning of life was made by Mrs. C. G. Cowell, in her address on "Social Morality." She gave many hints to parents on how to deal with the subject, and showed the disastrous results resulting from ignorance along these lines. Her practical talk was followed by a discussion.

Vegetable Cook Book Free

This is the season when everybody should live on fresh foods and our Washington Information Bureau wants to help by making the government's book on "How to Select, Prepare and Cook Vegetables" available to every reader. In these days when the world supply of food is short and prices are consequently high it is a patriotic duty as well as a matter of common sense that everybody should live through the summer, as nearly as possible, on the perishable products of the garden. This book which we offer free gives directions for using them. It was prepared by the Department of Agriculture, and contains the best information in existence on the subject. The Lizard and His Liz

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., July 21.—This is a semi-scientific monograph on a specimen of humanity so far little known to science. We refer to the curb lizard, a species which in this town may be studied under unusually favorable conditions, as the atmosphere around here seems to stimulate its growth.

"Lizard," as you may know, is a general term for a weary youth who is always to be found leaning against something or somebody. Thus, there are lounge lizards, dance lizards—tennis, dance liz—beach lizards, and, as in this story, the curb lizard.

The curb lizard is indigenous to the pavements around drug stores. It eats anything, expensive things preferred. Its widespread occurrence at this time is due, in part at least, to the housing shortage which has robbed the youth of our cities of its parlor sofa rights. In the stress of war exigencies, parlors have been rented, sofa and all, to the highest bidder, and in the resulting confusion boys and girls betook themselves to the parks and streets to swell the crowd of lizards and lizzes.

The curb lizard is a personal platform. It eats anything, expensive things preferred. Its widespread occurrence at this time is due, in part at least, to the housing shortage which has robbed the youth of our cities of its parlor sofa rights. In the stress of war exigencies, parlors have been rented, sofa and all, to the highest bidder, and in the resulting confusion boys and girls betook themselves to the parks and streets to swell the crowd of lizards and lizzes.

We are the children of the dead.

Beneath the doors of Heaven's blue

Blue souls expect us to be true.

When one of us shall walk astray?

Who knows the words of praise they say.

When one of us upon the earth

Shall justify his hour of birth?

We follow them who lived before.

Because they lived we now have life.

And strength to meet its trials of strife.

For us they opened wide the door.

Bequeathed us all the wisdom we learned,

And to the best that they could know,

Poined the way for us to go.

The dead have sung the songs we sing.

Have loved these roses and the dew.

And smiled beneath the skies of blue,

Seen the swift swallow on the wing.

And heard the birds are homeing here.

Toiled on their tasks from year to year.

That we who were to come to birth

Should find a kindlier, richer earth.

We are the living now, and yet

Soon we must go to join the vast

Uncertain arms of the past.

Outward sun of life has set.

And like our dead, whose young we are,

Our influence shall travel far.

Behind us countless ages stay,

To learn from us the better way.

TEETH, TONSILS AND HEART—1

About Heart as a Preventive
If we did not live in people's light, (orocarditis) have their breathing, although as a rule the trouble produces no pain and no alarming symptoms which would point toward a heart lesion.

In acute sore throat, there is always a certain tendency toward involvement of the heart lining—germs conveyed in the blood stream to the heart lining lodge directly on the heart lining.

Especially, there is always a certain tendency toward involvement of the heart lining—germs conveyed in the blood stream to the heart lining lodge directly on the heart lining.

It is a good idea to get a reasonably hygienic life. If we doubt the wisdom of this, we can ventilate our school rooms which are usually unventilated by gaudy means in the winter time; we can draft with a child through fresh air acquired some evil option from motion; we associate with almost human animals who sneeze and cough, face, regardless of the sensibilities and safety of those about them; and we should sit around and grow fat and fussy. It is no wonder that disease germs find us easy meat.

It is the overheating, the defective ventilation, the carelessness of opening of windows, the close proximity of children, beans, peans, I indulge in distance walking, running, swimming and a half hour of vigorous gymnastics every morning. I do not believe in bone work. Are peanuts all right to eat? Which food will build bone? Butterflies or muscle building? Whole milk or what is the better muscle building food? (G. W. E.)

ANSWER—Your vegetarianism reminds me of your restaurant patron who offered his choice of herring or lemon pie. He said, "I'll take lemon." And you are bringing him in just eat a little appetizer, every morning. I do not believe in bone work. Are peanuts all right to eat? Which food will build bone? Butterflies or muscle building? Whole milk is about the better muscle building food.

The Mystery of Hartley House

By CLIFFORD S. RAYMOND

(Copyright by George H. Doran Co.)

"I can tell you about Dravada," said Jed. "Sidney was head of a shipping firm. Dravada had been a sailor. He had come to be a porter or stevedore about the docks. We needed a porter because Mr. Sidney brought this man from the dock to all his position. He was a stoic creature, very strong, and useful and never annoying. Now I'll tell you as much as I possibly can without doing you a great injustice."

"We had lived in Montevideo 15 years when Jed came to us. He has never written since. Mr. Sidney began writing the manuscript, of which this is a copy of one sheet, the year Jed came."

"The only reason I do not tell you the manuscript contains is because it will give you peace of mind if you know my experience that your conscience never would be at rest if you had full knowledge, and yet you would be entirely helpless. So out of consideration for you I will not tell you more than I have to."

"Mr. Sidney never has had the slightest scruple as to what he has done; he rejoices in it. You have spoken of his will to live; when he held back from you and excused it. He said it was part of his manuscript, which you have seen that Jed, after his satisfaction to leave a record of his crime, I know that it does. 'I understand that he had to do,' I understand, 'that he had to have it known after his death that he had done what he did.'

"Jed's family name is Ariss. He was a crew on a British ship which sailed from Montevideo to Liverpool, and he became tired of sea work. Mr. Sidney had seen him about the wharf and had been attracted to him. They had remained enough for Mr. Sidney to learn of Jed's ambitious and comfortable life on shore. Mr. Sidney gave him the chance to realize it in one house."

"Jed, after he was taken into the house, found out that Mr. Sidney used great precautions with something which he looked in a box. When Dravada came, he also saw the box which Mr. Sidney seemed to guard so carefully. Dravada decided to steal whatever was in it. Jed found him in the act. They fought, but Jed retained the contents—Mr. Sidney's manuscript."

"Then Jed knows the secret?" I asked.

"He does."

"And Dravada does not?"

"He cannot know any more than you know from reading this one short from the manuscript?"

"Where is the manuscript?"

"Jed has it."

"Does Mr. Sidney know that?"

"Yes, sir. You have been wondering at Jed's control in the house. He has the manuscript, and he knows the story which for your own sake I would not have told you."

"He presumes he has knowledge."

"But doesn't Mr. Sidney ever want to see the manuscript he sets such store by?" I asked.

"No. He wants to know it is in his strong box. If he ever finds that it is not, we shall have to meet the situation somehow. God knows how."

"Then this sailor and this blackmailing lawyer know no more than I know now."

"No more, so far as I am aware."

Brown, the lawyer, came to Hartley house the next day to see Mr. Sidney. He regarded his plan of blackmail as irresistible. I wonder that he did not have an express wagon and a large chest with him. He was amiable and expectant.

"You have decided," he said as Jed, having brought him to me on the porch, went away. He had his coat and his gloves and his nap-worn suit.

"You get nothing," I said, "and may act upon that information."

The disappointed lawyer, grumbling and muttering to himself, I wanted to dramatize the effect. I said it was catastrophic.

He sat down suddenly in the nearest wicker chair, and his face became ugly in appearance.

"You must know that," he said,

"and you need to be the performer of my duty by the thought of a son and two daughters for whom I have provided indifferently. I will not say that their situation is desperate, but it may make me desirous."

I feel that we have a chance here which might easily be adjusted."

"You use a number of euphemisms for blackmail, and none of them conceals your meaning. If your wife and daughters are in need, you might approach Mrs. Sidney as the almoner of Mr. Sidney's charities."

That, at least, would be an honest statement of your case, and it might be effective."

He brightened at once.

"Thank you for a lesson in procedure. We shall consider it."

"I saw the mistake I had made."

"I assure you," I said, "you may consider nothing upon the terms I wish to have considered in this case."

"You also mentioned that you may go to the world or to the profession of attorney. The family is not interested in you or your client."

The shabby little fellow seemed to get blue-nosed and blue-lipped in interest.

"What did you say, then?"

"I merely remarked to a friend of ours that if there was a tax on brains the government would owe you money."

"I'm going to get you another chair for the kitchen, Norah."

"Sure, I don't need it, ma'am."

"But you have enough, ma'am."

"But you have company some evenings, don't you, Norah?"

"Only gentlemen, ma'am?"

"You're going to brazen it out," he cried.

"We are not going to do anything at all," I said, "not seeing any necessity for doing anything."

"I merely suggest to you that there are legal problems against blackmail."

The quiet little man, with his notorious blackmail charge, was becoming savage and desperate.

"I can't be fooled with," he cried.

"I know you won't assure us, but you do not dare. I know you are afraid to be pushed unless I have a real hold on this family. I have taken the chance that I have a real hold. It was not certain, but now I know it. It is not enough to keep you from making trouble for me, and I'll see that soon it will be enough to make you listen to me."

"You may do anything you want to do," I said.

He became quiet and fuming again.

"Then, if you don't mind, I'd like to speak to Jed," he said.

I rang for him.

When Jed came, the little shabby lawyer became excited again and got up out of his chair to shake his finger at Jed.

"I'm in trouble," he said.

"We know what you have, and we'll get it. They don't dare stop us, and I want to give you notice that you are marked. That's all you have."

I followed and headed him down in the end, and that'll be an end to this superciliousness here. It may be with you, you're dead.

"It's a threat, and the people in this town can make the best of it. I'm in this case to stay, and my Spanish client is not easily discouraged or controlled. You have chosen to deal with us in this fashion. We'll get the rest out of you in ten times more than you will be willing to settle for now. We've got an equity in this matter, and we're going to collect it. We know all about you, my friend Jed, and we'll show you what we do. Where's my cane and hat? I'm going to get out of here. You'll regret it."

"Jed," I said, "show the gentleman where the door is and don't let the dogs attack him on the way out."

QUIT TOBACCO

So easy to drop Cigarette, Cigar, or Chewing habit

No-To-Bac has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-wracking habit. Whenever you have a desire for a cigarette, cigar or chew, just take a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead. All desire stops. Shortly the habit is completely broken, and you are rid of the urge to smoke again. Or, if the worst should come to the worst, you might be torn to pieces by a pack of prairie wolves as hungry as yourself.

Sometimes cattle stray away from the flock and try to cross the plains and get as far as Dead Lake—nothing, mentally, physically, naturally, it's dead—dying. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question. No-To-Bac is made by the owners of Cascartons; therefore it is thoroughly reliable.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

By PHILIPPE

FAME AWAITED LINDSEY JUST BEYOND THE RAINBOW.
I have been fairly swamped with letters of congratulations from my friends, and yet I have not become larger in the head despite this fact.

Mother and Nanny asked me at breakfast today if they might come down and see my studio, and of course I said yes. What else could I say?

Dear creatures, they consider us famous already and are so busy reminding me of it that my success makes me smile.

After all, it's only a start, putting over this cover, and my foot is on the very bottom rung of the ladder still, as well I know.

Goodness gracious, I watched this good news over me for some time now, and I know its ups and downs, believe me. I also know its bitter, bitter disappointments and endless heartaches. So many people I care for have been through the mill. I could not have made illusions left about this matter, at any rate.

Ten chances to one the next thing that I offer this very same editor, who bought my cover so hilariously yesterday, will be turned down by him. Such is fate! As tickle and faithless a jade as ever was born. Nay, little Lindsey is not dreaming any pipe dreams about a permanent success, not by a joyful death.

I had a delighted sorrow from Brian a while ago, congratulating me to the "coming artist" and asking me to fix a time for him to see me and wring my hand in private. It's wonderfully exhilarating to know that everyone is rooting right at your gates now. It's worth all the struggles that have gone before.

Cecil's sitting was postponed yesterday, and today he was at my

Select Site for Sport Events At Community Picnic

FIELD SOUTH OF PARK CHOSEN AS BEST AVAILABLE

By FRANCIS SINCLAIR.
The low, level stretch of ground along the river bank south of River side park has been picked by the athletic committee as the site for the ball games and other sports events for the great community picnic to be held next Wednesday. Residents of Janesville will remember the place as the old Chautauqua grounds. Some of the young men will recall that

It is expected that it will be possible to make an announcement tomorrow of the list of prizes for the 14 events of the sporting program. A solicitation committee has been at work getting donations.

It was used during their boyhood days as a local ball diamond. The game will be between the Janesville American Legion and the Janesville All-Stars.

Only Available Spot
After a thorough inspection of the park, the field chosen was picked out as the only available location that will make for success of the sporting program and at the same time be easily accessible to the crowd. This spot was first selected by the sports committee in which to park automobiles. There is so much space in this vicinity, however, that use of part of it will still permit storing the autos.

Handling Crowds
Present plans call for roping off the diamond to keep back crowds. The other field events will be held in the same locality, whether before or after will not be decided until the scheduling committee makes its final decision.

Special attention is being paid to the water events. For swimming events, it is planned to have motor boats line the course as a matter of safety and protection to swimmers. These events will be held close to the dance hall at the park.

INDIANS BATTLE TO RETAIN LEAD

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Defeating Chicago 2 to 1, the Red Sox won the opener of the Series. Jones outpitched Williams, and Jackson drove the ball into the right field bleachers for a homer.

The pitching of Witt gave the Mackmen a win over the Browns 7 to 2. Baynes was unready for St. Louis and was relieved by Smith.

Cleveland and New York are bat- tled. The Yankees took the first fall by 4 to 3. May had the Indians shut out until the ninth when he became unsteady and allowed three runs to cross the platter. He was relieved on the mound by Mayo.

No other games were scheduled.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Holiday's bid to three scattered hits in a game won by Philadelphia 6 to 1. The one run came in the first on four walks. Alexander was hit hard.

They fought 12 innings to 3 to 2. Dot scored from the 10th in the winning run when Myers made a wild return on Smith's double to right. Smith fielding by both clubs marked the contest. Heathcock's leaping catch of Holke's line drive in the last inning with two out and two on base kept Boston out of the lead.

Brooklyn league leaders went down to defeat before the Pirates 4 to 3. Marquard was driven from the box in the fifth. Mitchell, who replaced him, prevented further scoring.

The Giants won from Cincinnati 5 to 3 by hitting Fisher hard in the effective the rest of the way. Toney effective the rest of the way, Toney lasted only five innings and was relieved by Douglas.

SENATOR HARDING'S SPEECH.

 Inflated baste, we must debt in deliberation. We debased the dollar in reckless finance, we must restore it to honest and sound currency. The last and greatest of the 100-cent dollar on the other ought to have begun on the day after the armistice was signed. We were lacking in courage, and peace was little less costly than unpreparedness for war.

We can, however, no one remedy which will cure all of such wide proportions, but we do pledge that earnest and consistent attack upon the party and community. We will attack intelligent and courageous inflation, and strike at government borrowing, which enlarges our debts and we attend Republican campaign with every energy and facility which attend Democratic campaign. We promise that we will not attempt the cutting of waste and extravagance, and the renewal of the practice of public economy, not alone but because it will be an example to stimulate thrift and economy in private life.

I have already alluded to the necessity for the fullness of production, and we need the fullness of service which attends the exchange of services. Let us, however, profit by the reduced cost of living and reduced cost of living are in bitter contradiction unless we have the height of efficiency for wages and rents.

In consistency we promise the prevention of unreasonable profits, we challenge profiteering with all the moral force and legal power of government and people. But it is fair, it is timely, to give reminder that law is not the sole corrective of our economic life.

TURF AND ECONOMY.
 Let us call to all the people for their part and economy for denial and sacrifice if need be, for a nation-wide drive against extravagance and luxury, to reconstruct the society of men, to the present and normal plan of life which has been reared from the very cradle of manhood. The story of mankind was never written, except through work and saving, through industry and self-sacrifice, and has marked every day in the history of nations. Give the assurance of that rugged and sturdy of American life which marked the first century of amazing development and this generation may underwrite a second century of surpassing accomplishment.

The Farmer

The Republican party was founded by farmers, with the sensitive conscience born of their freedom and their simple lives. It was the "farm of the then Middle West." Our party has never failed in its realization that agriculture is essential to the welfare of our country, existence, and it has ever been our policy, purpose and performance to protect and promote that essential industry.

New industries, which attend amazing growth and extraordinary industrial development, came forward to meet the farmer. The American farmer, in a hundred and twenty institutions to find in the home market, and heard the cry of "We will face an appalling task until handicaps never encountered before."

in the rise of price levels there many questions of vast importance must be raised, and, in due season, a fuller expression, with some suggestions or plans to emphasize the facts. Such expression will follow, in due time, I promise you.

A Political Creed

have come increased appraisals to his acres without regard to the value of the land, which add to his costs and expenses without adding to the sum of his income. His helpers have yielded to the lure of money and, as a result, the farmer has lost and borne the loss of the only consistent attempt to force down prices. It challenges both the wisdom and the honesty of the political leaders, and it is proper to recall that they were effective almost solely against his products in the field of the protective tariff and the efforts of the government to regulate the same products in passing the consumer. Contemplating the policies and know we will be calling for its saving Americanism again.

I believe in a program of defense to meet the organization of the leading maritime nation of the world, the things the farmer buys, that farmers should not only be permitted but compelled to receive a measure of recompense merited by their arduous toil. Let us face the fact that in the world, with a little effort for preparedness, we can still avoid the terrible cost of our previous neglect.

I believe in our insistence in cooperation with the government in the protection of our coast and the conservation of our food supply and the fixing of exportation price upon it.

MARKETING AND WASTE

Our platform is an earnest pledge of renewed concern for this most essential and elemental industry, and in both appreciation and interest and pledge efforts to expand and develop it. We will make that cooperation which again will make profitable and desirable the ownership and operation of commercial farms, which will be organized, and which will facilitate the earning for the products of farm and orchard without the incidental waste under present conditions.

America would look with anxiety on the discouragement of farming activity either through the government's neglect or its policies of socialism.

American Republican administration will be committed to renewer regard for agriculture, and seek participation of all in curing the many complained of, and aim to place the American farm, where it ought to be—highly ranked in the list of the good fortunes of American life.

Becoming associated with this subject are the policies of the government and its intent to agricultural expansion, and the continued development of the great and wonderful West. It is our purpose to continue our own federal aid, not in sectional particular, but for the good of all America. We hold to the belief of all Americans. We hold to the harmony of relationships, and the commonality of interests, which fittingly appraises our natural resources and makes them available to developing America, and with it the American thought for the America of the morrow.

The federal government's relation to reclamation and development is too important to be left to any one state. Today Alaska, alone, is rich in resources beyond all imagination, and needs only exploring, the great and the little, the mountain, the plain, and a continental policy that both safeguards and encourages development, to speed it to a foreseen position as a commonwealth, a good citizen, a common man, rich in materialized resources.

These things I can only mention. Within bounding limits one can not say more. Indeed, for the present a fuller expression, with some suggestions or plans to emphasize the facts. Such expression will follow, in due time, I promise you.

18th Amendment

I believe in law enforcement. As elected I mean to be a constitutional president, and unable to live up to the law, when our every government believes federal, unconstitutional to evade the law, when our every government is to orderly government, mutual agreement of the states as applied to government. I believe that the 18th amendment will accept the full responsibility of enlarged citizenship and give to the best in the republic their suffrage and support.

Let us not share the apprehensions of many men and women as to the danger of this momentous change in the lives of women. Women have never been without influence in our political life.

Enfranchisement will bring to the polls the votes of our sons or who have fought in faith and assurance the freedom and opportunities of our land. It will bring to the polls the wives and mothers, trained in our schools, trained in our habits of thought, and sharers of our problems. It will bring to the polls the wives and mothers, trained in the true intuition, the abhorrence of tyranny or oppression, the wide and tender sympathy that distinguishes the women of America.

Neither government nor people can afford to let the American people, who are of congress must harmonize with the constitution, else they will be adjudged to be unconstitutional.

I believe in a navy ample to protect it, and able to assure us defense.

I believe in a small army, but the best in the world, with a little effort for preparedness, we can still avoid the terrible cost of our previous neglect.

I believe in our insistence in trade abroad that the government should expand, both in revealing markets and speeding cargoes.

I believe in establishing standards for immigration, and in our concern for the welfare of future citizenship of the republic, not with mere man power in the world so little understands, and a like cooperation to market the products of agriculture with the countries in the interests of all.

Upon such association and cooperation should be laid only such regulation as will not interfere with the rights of our food supply and the fixing of exportation price upon it.

Men of the War

Though not in any partisan sense I now speak of the services of the men and women who rallied to the colors of the republic in our war.

I believe in holding fast to every forward step in unshackling child labor and subverting conditions of women's employment.

I believe in a strong federal government which stamp out lynching and remove that stain from the fair name of America.

I believe in the "fair and square" government which will be responsible for the welfare of all its patriotic citizens in purchasing them.

I believe the tax burdens imposed by the war emergency will be removed to the next session, and in the particular, the tax on agriculture.

I believe that the government will commit to renewed regard for agriculture, and seek participation of all in curing the many complained of, and aim to place the American farm, where it ought to be—highly ranked in the list of the good fortunes of American life.
